

ABSTRACT

A financial instrument issued by a company to a holder in order to compensate for services rendered to the company by the holder. The financial instrument comprises an obligation that a payor other than the company pay the holder when a predetermined event occurs.